Mentoring Program 2019 Launch Breakfast

BENEFITS OF MENTORING

Mentoring has been identified as an important professional development tool and an effective way to gain skills via knowledge transfer from members with differing levels of experience.

In addition, this program offers senior professionals the chance to further develop their coaching skills and inspire young water professionals to advance their careers within the water industry.

- Develop career goal setting tools
- Learn new skills
- Gain advice from industry leaders outside your current work network.

OUR SPEAKER: LISA COX

Lisa managed the Learning & Talent Development portfolios for the Asia Pacific region at Stantec running internal and external training, professional development, graduate development, succession planning, and high performing talent pools.

Lisa is now the Director of Global Talent & Organisational Development within Stantec.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The AWA will pair mentors and mentees based on the information they provide in their Mentoring Questionnaires. The more detail participants include in their applications, the more accurate the match!

The program kicks off with a breakfast launch event in the Melbourne CBD where the pairs will meet for the first time and hear from our guest speaker and past mentoring pairs. At this initial meeting each pair will agree on how often, where and when to meet. The AWA program co-ordinator will send out information on occasion to help spark discussion points. The program runs for one year but your relationship doesn't have to end there, some mentoring relationships last a lifetime!

Is mentor training required?

No, you just need to be an experienced water professional willing to provide guidance and leadership to your mentee. The AWA will provide the introductory session and materials needed. Mentees and mentors are required to attend the launch breakfast to join the program.

How do I sign up?
